CME and CBOT Announce Post-Merger Leadership Team

CHICAGO, Jan. 24, 2007 – Following the October 17, 2006, announcement of their proposed merger to create the most extensive and diverse global derivatives exchange, Chicago Mercantile Exchange Holdings Inc. (NYSE, NASDAQ: CME) and CBOT Holdings, Inc. (NYSE: BOT) today announced their post-merger leadership team contingent upon close of the merger. The companies believe they are on track to complete their merger transaction by mid 2007 and in recent weeks have achieved significant milestones, including filing a registration statement on form S-4 with the Securities and Exchange Commission on December 21, 2006, and deciding on a high level organizational structure and senior leadership team for the combined company.

“Both of our companies share a strong history of innovation, driven by talented people who anticipate customer needs for global, liquid risk management markets,” said CME CEO Craig Donohue, who will be CEO of CME Group after the merger is complete. “Today’s announcement demonstrates that, after the merger is complete, we will continue to have the most talented leadership team in the global derivatives industry so that we can grow our combined company in an increasingly competitive environment.”

The companies previously announced that after the merger is complete, Terrence A. Duffy, current CME Executive Chairman, will serve as CME Group Executive Chairman and Charles P. Carey, current CBOT Chairman, will serve as CME Group Vice-Chairman. Donohue will serve as CEO and Bernard W. Dan, Chief Executive Officer of CBOT, will remain in his current position, focusing on overseeing CBOT’s activities, products, and customers until the transaction is complete, at which time he will serve as Special Advisor to the combined company for one year.

Today, the companies also announced the senior leadership team that will serve on the CME Group Management Team after the completion of the transaction.

From the CBOT, Bryan Durkin will join CME Group as Chief Operating Officer, with responsibility for the combined company’s technology and operations areas, over half of the company’s employee base. Durkin will report to Phupinder Gill and will have ultimate responsibility for the transition of e-cbot products to CME Globex[®], and for the transition of CME trading floors to the CBOT trading facility, as well as for ongoing initiatives that enhance all trading operations and functionality. Durkin currently serves as Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer of CBOT, where he is responsible for all of the exchange’s trading operations, both on the trading floor and on the firm’s e-cbot electronic trading platform. He also has been responsible for maintaining the CBOT’s clearing relationship with CME, including implementation of the companies’ historic clearing arrangement that has existed since 2004. Durkin has held a variety of leadership roles at CBOT since he began his career there in 1982.

From CME, the following executives were named to post-merger leadership roles:

- Phupinder Gill, President. Gill will serve in the company’s Office of the CEO with Donohue. He currently serves as CME President & Chief Operating Officer. Gill has held numerous leadership positions with CME since joining the firm in 1988.

- Kathleen M. Cronin, Managing Director, General Counsel and Corporate Secretary. Cronin has served in this capacity with CME since joining the company in 2002. After the merger is complete, she will continue to report to Donohue.
- John P. Davidson III, Managing Director & Chief Corporate Development Officer. Davidson has served in this role with CME since 2006, and previously held leadership roles in the company’s Clearing division from 1983-1993. After the merger is complete, he will continue to report to Donohue.
- E. Beth Keeve, Managing Director, Organizational Development. Keeve has served in this capacity for CME since 2002, and will continue to report to Donohue after the merger is complete. She joined CME in 1994.
