"Just Ask" Updates for Feb. 16, 2007

Thank you for submitting your questions to the "Just Ask" site on OpenExchange. Below we have provided answers to the most frequently asked questions we have received in the past week.

1. If employees with CME stock options continue to work for CME Group, will they retain both vested and unvested stock options?

Yes. After the close of the merger, there will be no impact to stock options granted to CME employees before the merger. Vesting schedules will not change, nor will exercise prices.

2. If I lose my job, will 401(k) contributions continue to be withdrawn from my severance? If so, will CME continue to match these contributions?

Severance payments are generally made in one lump sum and are not eligible for 401(k) contributions. If your employment with CME ends (whether as a result of the merger or for another reason), you will be eligible to roll over your 401(k) balance into another qualified plan and defer paying taxes on that balance. If you choose to take payment of your 401(k) balance and not roll it over, there may be tax penalties involved if you are under age 59 1/2. For more information on 401(k) distributions, please consult the Benefits Handbook on OpenExchange.
